NORFOLK, VIRGINIA

ITS LOCATION, HISTORY, ADVANTAGES, RESOURCES AND ATTRACTIONS

PREPARED AND COMPILED BY THE CITY CLERK

To handle a great subject in a small way and yet do it justice is not an effort of facility. The Norfolk of 1911 is a great subject and the Greater Norfolk of the early future is still greater. A comprehensive review of any single item in the sum of Norfolk's credit, natural, industrial, or commercial, might easily fill a book, so that a general survey is the most to be expected from the few pages or paragraphs herein accorded it.

Norfolk is a genuine city of opportunity, and to let these opportunities be known is the main object of this compilation. Here Nature and Industry have met in friendly alliance to strive for the commercial prestige of the South Atlantic coast. Not only is Norfolk a natural point of assembly and distribution, but it is also a point of production, conditions which are fast bearing her to her destiny as a metropolis of the South.

GEOGRAPHICAL LOCATION.

NORFOLK, the principal seaport town of Virginia, U. S. A., is situated in the northern part of Norfolk County, on the north side of the Elizabeth River, (an arm of the Chesapeake Bay)), at the mouth of its eastern branch, and immediately opposite Portsmouth and the confluence of the southern branch.

It is situated about two hundred miles from the Blue Ridge Mountains, and thirty-five miles northwest of the point at which the boundary line of Virginia and North Carolina intersects the coast of the Atlantic.

Norfolk is distant from Boston (by sea) 600 miles; from New York (by sea) 300 miles; from Philadelphia (by sea) 270 miles; from Washington, 190 miles; from Baltimore, 180 miles; from Richmond, 100 miles; from Hampton Roads, 12 miles; and it is almost within hearing of the deep-toned roar of the Ocean. The relative position of this City is exceedingly favorable. For all the various purposes of trade and commerce, both foreign and domestic, the port of Norfolk and Portsmouth stands almost unrivalled.

POPULATION.

The growth of Norfolk during the past five years has been rapid. The present year will show a large gain in population and a large gain in new buildings. Norfolk had in 1880 a population of 21,966, in 1890 a population of 34,871, in 1900 a population of 46,624, and in 1911 the population is 76,671, while the commercial population, including those living outside the city, but engaged in business in Norfolk, will increase the population to fully 100,000.

HISTORICAL NORFOLK AND ENVIRONMENT.

Three centuries ago three ships set sail for the colony of Virginia, the flower of the new world. After a stormy and perilous voyage, they cast anchor off what is now known as Lambert's Point, and attempted to land, but were driven back to their boats by a band of hostile Indians. The occupants of these boats were the first settlers of Virginia. They did not land at Norfolk, but made a brief anchorage off Old Point Comfort, which they named from the comfort they derived because of a feeling of security after so many perilous adventures. From the land they called Old Point Comfort, the navigators of the good ships "Godspeed," "Discovery" and "Susan Constant" sailed up the James River and landed at Jamestown Island, where the first permanent English settlement in America was made, May 13th, 1607.

These early English explorers influenced other bold adventurers to brave the dangers and privations of colonizing an unknown wilderness, and Virginia became the fairest of the colonies of England's King. Norfolk and the other fruitful sections of Tidewater Virginia were settled a few years later, and, from the historic village of the Seventeenth Century, Norfolk has modestly grown into the busy, prosperous City of Norfolk of today, with a population of nearly 100,000 people, and is rapidly growing into a great metropolis.

Norfolk was founded in 1682 in pursuance of an Act of the Virginia Assembly passed June 8, 1680, to establish towns for the encouragement of trade; and directing the purchase of fifty acres of land for the town of Norfolk. The Act states "that the price to be paid by each county for each respective fifty acres of land nominated as aforesaid shall be ten thousand pounds of tobacco and casks, which summe the owner or owners thereof shalbe and are hereby constrained to accept, take and receive, as full and valuable price for the said land forever."

September 15, 1736, is the date of the Royal Charter of Norfolk Borough.

Samuel Boush was the first Mayor of the Borough. By act of Assembly Norfolk became a city in 1845 with various alterations in the Charter; the Charter was revised in 1884 and a new Charter adopted in 1906. Norfolk is administratively independent of Norfolk County. In 1906 the Town of Berkley was annexed with an estimated population of 9800. In 1911 the new Ninth ward was annexed.

In 1761 the General Assembly passed an Act enlarging and accurately defining the boundaries of Norfolk. At this time Norfolk's import trade was estimated at about $4,000,000.00 annually. The Borough was the center of trade and social progress when the Revolutionary War began. As a punishment for the activity displayed by Norfolk in the Revolution, Lord Dunmore, (Fourth Earl of Dunmore 1732-1809) the British Governor of Virginia, ordered the bombardment of the City by the British Frigate "Liverpool," on January 1st, 1776. At that time, Norfolk was a flourishing City of 6,000 people, the richest and most flourishing in the Colony. The only building of any consequence left standing was Old St. Paul's Church, it was struck by a cannon ball, which is now cemented into the spot of the old Church wall where it struck on the memorable day in 1776; in the yard is one of the oldest cemeteries in the Country. In the war of 1812 Norfolk was again very active and furnished a large quota of soldiers and sailors for the American forces. In 1855 the City suffered terribly from Yellow Fever.

When the great war between the States began, Norfolk again became the center of unusual activity. It was the port of the principal naval station of the Southern Confederacy, and as such was one of the most important points of vantage during the early stages of the War. In Norfolk Harbor, just off Sewall's Point, occurred the great naval engagement between the "Virginia" (or "Merrimac") and the "Monitor" in Hampton Roads, in March, 1862, the first battle between iron-clads in the history of the world, an event that lead to the revolutionizing of naval warfare and battleship construction. At the outbreak of the Civil War the City was abandoned and the Navy Yard burned by the Federal forces in April, 1861; Norfolk was then occupied (until the 9th of May, 1862) by Virginia troops, first under General William Booth Taliaferro, and later under General Benjamin Huger. Near this City is the famous old Cape Henry Light-house, at the entrance of Chesapeake Bay, erected in 1690 and was used about 200 years, until the new lighthouse was built. On this old lighthouse is a tablet erected to mark the spot where in 1607, the first English Settlers disembarked, before making a permanent landing at Jamestown, but were driven back to their boats by hostile Indians.

THE MUNICIPAL GOVERNMENT.

The legislative and administrative branches of Norfolk's government comprise a Mayor, a Board of Control consisting three members, a Common Council and a Board of Aldermen.

The policy of the City Council is for all progressive movements that tend to the City's best interests. Permanent improvements are continually provided for, and the streets of the City will compare favorably with those of the largest cities.

Rates for gas and electric power are regulated by ordinance. The Water Works are owned and operated by the City.

CHURCHES AND SCHOOLS.

Norfolk has about seventy-five churches with a large aggregate membership. Many of them are very fine and beautiful buildings. St Paul's Church, built in 1739, was almost the only building that escaped destruction in 1776, when the town was burned by the British.

The School system is one of the first in the South. The New High School costing about $325,000.00, is thoroughly equipped for academic and technical training. The system has 29 buildings 243 teachers and 9025 scholars.

The value of School Property is about $1,000,000.00.

HOTELS, PROMINENT BUILDINGS, INSTITUTIONS AND STORES.

Norfolk has some of the best and finest hotels to be found anywhere. The Lynnhaven, The Monticello, Lorraine, Algonquin, Fairfax and others, giving ample accommodations to the traveling public.

Among the prominent buildings and institutions are the Custom House, Marine Hospital, Sarah Leigh Hospital, Protestant Hospital, St. Vincent's Hospital, Bank of Commerce Building, Citizens' Bank Building, Board of Trade Building and Law Building.

With the present increasing growth Norfolk will soon become one of the greatest American Cities in point of population as well as in commercial importance. A distinctive feature is the immense stretch of water front property. The stores of Norfolk, wholesale and retail, are up to the standard for a city of its size.

PARKS.

Norfolk has a fine park of about one hundred acres and a number of smaller ones, where thousands of people enjoy the pleasures afforded by the Zoo, the Music, shade and various attractions.

NORFOLK AS A HOME CITY.

There are in the City a number of large, old-fashioned mansions, one of which was erected in 1771; these contrast strangely with the more modern residences.

A feature of Norfolk's growth during the last decade has been the development of numerous suburban sections, some of which have become a part of the City. Various land companies are engaged in the improvement and exploitation of outlying districts, and the very reasonable and liberal terms upon which lots are offered to the public have enabled many to own their own homes, and this has been, and continues to be, an important factor in the sum of Norfolk's progress. In addition to these are several hundred pretty seaside cottages at Virginia Beach, Willoughby Beach and Ocean View, owned by citizens of Norfolk, and many others open for guests during the summer season. These attractive beaches are within easy reach of Norfolk and connected by first-class trolley lines.

COMMERCIAL, TRANSPORTATION AND SHIPPING ADVANTAGES AND FACILITIES; AND STATISTICS OF INDUSTRIES.

Norfolk's shipping and transportation facilities place it in the front rank of American Seaports. Steadily there have grown a number of industries that now rank among the largest in the world; its coal shipments are among the largest in the world. Its lumber interests are the largest in the South, aggregating some 900,000,000 feet of sawed and rehandled product, exporting logs, squared timber and staves. The peanut market is the largest in the world, 3,000,000 to 4,000,000 bushels being handled here each year. Its trucking interests are among the most extensive in America. Its oysters are of the finest flavor, the oyster and fish industry being a feature of considerable magnitude. Prominent among the business enterprises of the City is the Creosoting industry, this port being the greatest center in the world in this trade.

Another important industry that occupies a place of prominence is the manufacture of fertilizers. Norfolk has some of the most perfectly equipped fertilizer plants in the country, whose product exceed 250,000 tons annually. Norfolk makes large shipments of cotton (822,930 bales in 1905), oysters, lumber, grain, fruits, wine, vegetables, fish and live stock. The City is combined with Portsmouth in one customs district, the foreign trade of which in 1906 amounted to $11,678,000 in exports and $869,399 in imports. Among the manufactures are foundry and machine shop products, lumber, ice, fertilizers, cotton goods, silk goods, knit goods, wagons, carriages, bricks, barrels, boxes, crates, cutlery, farming implements, cabinets and mantels, butter-dishes, creosoted wood, paper boxes. In 1900 the value of the factory products was $4,691,779; in 1905 it was $5,900,129, an increase of 25.8 per cent. in five years. The water works are owned and operated by the municipality.

The growth of any town necessarily depends upon its transportation facilities. In this matter Norfolk is particularly fortunate. Its eight trunk lines have a total mileage of 25,000 miles. The Southern Railway, which extends southward to Jacksonville, Florida, and southwest to Meridian, Mississippi, and Memphis, Tennessee, and west to Louisville, has alone 7,000 miles of rail. The Seaboard Air Line extends as far south as Florida, and by its branch lines, puts Norfolk in touch with practically the whole cotton-growing section and makes Norfolk the natural exporting port alike for raw cotton and the finished products turned out by the mills that have sprung up as if by magic in this vast southern territory. In consequence Norfolk has become one of the great cotton ports of the country.

The railway terminals of the trunk lines here constitute one of the most imposing offices of the City's commercial activity. The Atlantic Coast Line, threading the rich trucking section of North Carolina; the Norfolk and Western, trapping the great coal fields of the mountains of Virginia; the Chesapeake and Ohio, constituting an artery of communication with the rich Middle West; the New York, Philadelphia and Norfolk, giving quick communication with New York; the Norfolk and Southern, bringing the cities of Eastern North Carolina in easy reach of Norfolk, give Norfolk land communication unsurpassed by any city on the Atlantic Coast south of New York. The Virginian, Norfolk's newest railway, is extending its lines westward and northward and will soon be one of the greatest of American trunk lines.

The Norfolk and Portsmouth Belt Line, encircling the cities of Norfolk and Portsmouth, traverses the manufacturing districts and serves as a connecting link for the various trunk lines entering the City.

In the matter of steamship lines Norfolk has the Merchants and Miners' Co, giving daily service to Boston and Providence; the Old Dominion Steamship Co, giving daily service to New York, and river service to various points in Eastern Virginia, including Richmond; the Clyde Line Steamship Co, whose vessels ply between Norfolk and Philadelphia; the Chesapeake Steamship Company, and the Baltimore Steam Packet Co, with a daily service to Baltimore; the Norfolk and Washington Steamship Co, giving communication daily with Washington. This means, of course, that freight rates in Norfolk by reason of competition are extremely advantageous.

ITS HARBORS.

Norfolk has one of the best harbors on the Atlantic Coast; deep and easily accessible through a thirty-foot channel way, (soon to be 35 ft.) affording ample facilities for the largest ships and anchorage and wharfage room.

The harbor, always open, is sufficiently deep and spacious to float and accommodate with ample room and perfect safety the combined navies of the world. It is situated about the middle of the whole vast extent of our Atlantic seacoast, the nearest and most convenient location for the depot and shipment of the incalculable wealth of the interior of Virginia and North Carolina, and, in fact, of a large portion of the great West; in convenient proximity not only to the ocean, and the bold and beautiful Chesapeake, but also to rivers, deep and wide, that wash and drain some of the most productive portions of the Union, with a climate almost always pleasant and remarkable salubrious, and which is seldom uncomfortably warm in summer, and rarely too cold in winter.

THE NATION'S NAVAL CITY.

That the National Government is duly cognizant of the supreme importance of Norfolk as the country's naval base is shown in the various massive fortifications which it has erected in the vicinity. In addition to the extensive works at Fortress Monroe, properly termed "The key to the Capital," there are minor defenses at points along Hampton Roads and the Chesapeake Bay which include Fort Wool and the smaller battery within the City limits on the Elizabeth river. Plans are being considered for extensive works at Cape Henry to guard the entrance to Chesapeake Bay, and these will doubtless be of sufficient power to effectually resist invasion at the very threshold of the continent.

The United States Naval Training Station at Norfolk and Portsmouth is the largest in the country. Here is also located the great United States Navy Yard, capable of building and repairing the largest battle-ships.

Across the harbor, at Newport News, is located the greatest ship-building plant in America, the proximity of which to Norfolk entitles this city to claim its share in this stupendous enterprise.

THE INCOMPARABLE HAMPTON ROADS.

In that section of Tidewater Virginia, of which Norfolk is the center, shore and sea and climatic conditions have combined to create a territory supremely attractive. The site of Norfolk is one of the choicest of a choice selection. Situated on Hampton Roads, that splendid harbor and arena of knightly encounters, Norfolk and its environments are rich in every respect to fire the heart of patriotism and sparkle the eye of Nature's lover. Land and sea abound in historic interest. The expanse of Hampton Roads is the scene of many gallant achievements of the American sailor, and the shores about are forever consecrated by the valorous blood of the American soldier. Here, in the Nation's infancy, the savage war cry roused the colonists. Here the English mariners met the ships of France. Here, in the Revolutionary War and the War of 1812, American sailors set their battle flag and defied the power of Britain; and it was here, during the great Civil War, that the Monitor and Merrimac inaugurated a new epoch in the naval affairs of the world.

All these stirring incidents have long since passed into history and the Hampton Roads of today is an arena of peace and plenty, the grand emporium of the world, where the fleets of commerce ply back and forth, presenting a marine picture unequalled on the American Continent.

NORFOLK'S STRIDE FORWARD.

Norfolk possesses in a superior degree the compelling combination of conditions and circumstances to build up a great metropolis. Lying in the very center of the great commercial zone it holds a strategic position as a favored point on the line of least resistance. The extent of territory tributary to Norfolk is well nigh continental. The environment of the City is one of the richest agricultural districts of the Nation. Norfolk feeds herself and is one of the largest contributors to the feeding of New York and other dependent places. Manufacturies are locating, and will continue to locate here by reason of superior advantages of entry and distribution. The excellence of the climate, together with natural beauty of environment, offers surpassing opportunities for health and pleasure-seekers and home-makers, and these considerations, equally with the commercial, are gaining rapid recognition throughout the country.

SOLID BASIS OF NORFOLK'S PROSPERITY.

To the advancement of a community there are numerous causes, but the firmest foundation of prosperity is built upon agriculture and commerce. In sufficient measure either will alone make a community great, but, as in the case of Norfolk, when there is combination of these economic factors, the condition is commanding. The section in which Norfolk is located, generally known as "Tidewater Virginia," is among the most fertile in the State and ranks with the best lands anywhere. Norfolk is a seaport which produces a considerable portion of the exports which leave its wharves, but, in addition it is the legitimate clearing house for the immense section westward to the Mississippi and these are the potential elements behind the prosperity of the city and section.

PARADISE OF THE SMALL FARMER.

Genial climatic conditions above a generous soil permit of continuous farming and two crops a year is the rule. The numerous steamship and railroad lines of Norfolk are mainly engaged in carrying the products of the section to the Northern markets. Fortunes are being made yearly by the truckers of this vicinity, many of whom are from the Northern and Western States. The man of agricultural inclination with small means can find no better investment for his energy and capital than a farm in Tidewater Virginia accessible to the Norfolk market.

TRIBUTARY TERRITORY.

The influence of a city is measured by the control it exerts over contiguous territory. The extent of this territory, its fertility, its mineral wealth, its population, is the measure of the force and vitality of its focusing point. In this respect Norfolk can lay claim to a tributary territory fully as important as that which has built up other cities. The agricultural and manufacturing activity of 21,000,000 people lies within twenty-four hours of this city. Not only is she in the great zone of National activity, but she is also on the drift line of world commerce and affairs. The expansive growth of the South during the past twenty years has not been equalled by any other section of the country, and Hampton Roads is the grand focusing point to which the golden stream will flow in ever increasing volume. In this great section of the United States the growth of city and country goes hand in hand—the whole section is developing.

NORFOLK A CONVENTION CITY.

The manner in which Norfolk has on numerous occasions handled and cared for exceptionally large crowds of strangers, has given her a reputation as a Convention City.

A half a dozen commodious and well-equipped hotels have been within the past few years added to the sum of Norfolk's hostelries, and in the manner of hotel accommodations the City is more than well provided. This was demonstrated upon the occasion of the "Atlantic Deeper Waterways Convention," held at Norfolk November 17-21, 1909, when President Taft spent a day in the city. There were many hundred delegates besides members of their families and friends, yet every individual was comfortably cared for without in the least crowding or disarranging the hotel accommodations of the city.

Certainly in the items of natural interest, in its many adjacent seaside resorts and also historical scenes, Norfolk is a Convention City second to none. Convention delegates invariably seek to combine pleasure with their business and in Norfolk they find the facilities unrivalled.

SPORT AND GAME.

Within twenty miles of Norfolk there lie some of the finest small game preserves on the Continent. The inland waterways and branches of the sea swarm with water fowl and in season attract number of wealthy sportsmen from the North. The Dismal Swamp and the great Desert behind Cape Henry are veritable sportsmen's paradises, teeming with game birds, rabbits, deer, and not a few bears.

LARGE VARIETY OF CROPS.

No country has a better distribution of rain than this. Some of the general farm crops are corn, cotton, tobacco, cowpeas, peanuts, oats and hay. The principal truck and fruit crops are lettuce, strawberries, beets, cauliflower, snap beans, cucumbers, watermelons, cantaloupes, radishes, onions, peppers, okra, egg-plant, carrots, cabbage, spinach, turnips, tomatoes, asparagus, English peas, Irish potatoes, sweet potatoes, squash,, cranberries, figs, apples, grapes, plums, peaches and pears.

NORFOLK'S IDEAL CLIMATE.

In the sum of those things which make up the comfort, healthfulness, and happiness of mankind, certainly the item of climate is one of the greater factors. Where life is a constant struggle against adverse climatic conditions, all other advantages, however great they may be, must suffer deterioration. Throughout the whole of North America there are few sections presenting so perfect a coast climate as that of Tidewater Virginia surrounding the City of Norfolk. Because of the numerous estuaries, rivers, lakes and bays—to say nothing of the great sea—which indent and invest in every direction this great extent of territory, the heated winds of Summer are tempered and cooled as they pass over expanse of multitudinous waters. In Winter the Gulf Stream opposes its vast column of relatively heated air as a barrier against the biting north-westers which chill and solidify the sections remote from its genial influence. The winds at Norfolk, filled as they are with the rich odors of the great contiguous pine lands on the one hand, or with the invigorating ozone of the sea on the other, are the factors in the sum of climatic excellence, which for all we know to the contrary, render this section distinct and unique in the topography of the planet. It is the combination of these atmospheric elements which renders the climate of Norfolk so thoroughly delightful and so remarkable healthful.

Data compiled from the best authorities, including that of the U. S. Weather Bureau, and covering a period of twenty years show the annual temperature at Norfolk to be 62.9 degrees, and the month averages mean as follows: January 42.8, February 49.9, March 51.7, April 59.2, May 65.8, June 72.6, July 78.4, August 80.6, September 73.9, October 62.4, November 60.1, December 52.5. One hundred degrees of heat has been reached on but few occasions during this extended period, and Winters frequently pass without the temperature falling below 32 degrees. The average Winter temperature is 41.9 and that of summer 77.4.

In climatic qualifications humidity is a factory of large import, and here again this section is happily favored, proffering a mean relative humidity for the year of 71.8, which practically represents the medium between the extremes of this phenomenon, operating to keep the landscape of a delightful green freshness and rarely reaching the point of oppressiveness.

The U. S. Weather Bureau gives Norfolk a total of 258.8 sunny days out of the 365, and with the statement of this fact further comment on the climate of this section is unnecessary.

CHARITABLE AND BENEVOLENT INSTITUTIONS.

Norfolk is blessed by a charitable spirit among all classes of its citizens. In addition to the numerous societies and lodges which care for the families of their members, and the benevolent work of the many churches, there are some fifteen institutions for the care of the aged and infirm and destitute, including orphan asylums, houses of refuge for old people, houses of protection for young girls, the almshouse, and two institutions at the seaside for infants and working women needing rest and recreation. The aggregation makes a splendid showing for a city of this size, of which the people of Norfolk may feel proud.

MATERIAL ASSETS.

Norfolk's largest material assets are her water-works and system, than which few places can boast a better; her sewerage system; her public schools, comprising many artistic and durable structures; her city hall and market, and her parks. The public utilities operated by private corporations are under adequate municipal control and all such services are operated at the lowest cost and to the best interests of the public.

NORFOLK'S NEWSPAPERS, AND PUBLICATIONS.

Norfolk has three excellent daily newspapers, the Landmark, the Virginian-Pilot, and the Ledger-Dispatch, the latter an evening Journal, also weekly and monthly periodicals.

Various publishing and printing companies are prepared for the printing and exploitation of any form of literature, and some of the works turned out in this city are not excelled in substance and mechanical make-up by any house in the country.

THE AGENCIES WHICH BUILD CITIES.

Cities owe their growth and greatness to one, or several, or all of the following conditions:

1st. Strategic position in the great commercial zone, creating a natural clearing-house of commerce, by land, or water, or both.

2nd. A rich agricultural environment.

3rd. Manufactories existing by reason of advantages over other places.

4th. Unusual excellence of climate with complete freedom from natural cataclysms, storms and pestilences.

5th. Natural beauty of environment, offering surpassing opportunities for health, pleasure and home-building.

Any one of these items is sufficient to create a great and prosperous city and the map is full of places which exist solely by virtue of possession of one or more of them. Some few fortunate places possess the combination and these are invariably listed among the great cities of the world. The entire number in the highest measure of superiority may be credited to the City of Norfolk.

Unless all signs fail, by 1915 Norfolk will be a splendid city with a largely increased population, and this accrescence will embody no spasmodic growth, boom or inflation, but will represent the safe, sane and legitimate advancement of a city marching with giant strides to take its place among the greater municipalities of the nation.

THE INDUSTRIAL COMMISSION.

In August, 1908, there was created by ordinance, under provision of the City Charter, a department known as "The Board of Commercial and Industrial Interests," better known as "The Industrial Commission." This Board consists of eight members, serving without compensation, selected as follows: Three members from the Common Council, two from the Board of Aldermen, and three citizens at large, the latter being appointed by the Mayor, each to serve two years.

The ordinance creating this Commission defines its duties and powers in a general and comprehensive way, recommending to its consideration all matters of internal improvement now in existence, or which may be projected from time to time, the commercial, industrial and manufacturing interests of the City, the guardianship of its rights and privileges in all matters of transportation and communication, whether by land or water, by telegraph, telephone, or otherwise.

While the Commission has no executive powers, still it may be easily seen that the wide latitude given it by the ordinance, makes it an advisory factor of great value, relieving the Council of much detail work.

In addition to the above, one of the principal functions of the Commission is to exploit and advertise the City by every means in its power. To this end, an annual appropriation is made for its use in this direction, with the result that high class literature is prepared and distributed over the whole country, as well as in the local hotels, and on the various steamship lines.

Its office is known as a Bureau of Information, where a Secretary may be found at all times during the business hours of the day, prepared to furnish the traveling public, or any others, with any information they might desire concerning the City and vicinity.

The work of the Industrial Commission has been most successful since its incipency, as a factor in the matter of improvement and development of the City, it continues to grow daily in value and importance.

The present membership of the Commission is as follows:

HARVEY M. DICKSON, President,

R. L. FORREST, Vice-President,

W. P. DODSON, Treasurer,

HARRY H. TRICE, Secretary,

R. E. SUMMERS,

E. F. JAKEMAN,

The Norfolk Landmark

Every Morning in the year

THE NORFOLK LANDMARK

Is the Leading Newspaper in Eastern Virginia and Carolina

IT REACHES THE HOMES

The Landmark has a substantial and steadily increasing circulation. It goes more largely than any other paper into the substantial homes of Norfolk and tributary territory and thus appeals to families of most value to advertisers. Its advertising columns therefore are worth many times the rate per inch it asks. This statement is borne out by the fact that the Landmark has never known a period of financial embarrassment since its inception. Out of 22,502 daily papers in the United States, only 121 are awarded the "Gold Marks" by the American Newspaper Directory. The Landmark has this distinction. The "Gold Marks" cannot be bought. They mean substantiability and influence. It takes merit to win this particular rating. Such papers as the New York Herald, the Brooklyn Eagle, New York Evening Post, Chicago Tribune, Pittsburg Dispatch, are wearing this badge of honor with the Landmark.

High Standard in All Departments

Its literary standard is high in all of the various departments. It is the most influential journal in the Eastern part of Virginia. It excludes from its columns a great deal of the best paying advertising in the country because of the questionable character of the business offered. Its large local business proves how valuable and necessary for their welfare and prosperity the merchants and people generally of Norfolk and vicinity regard its advertising columns.

Its Aim is to Give The News

Local, State, National and Foreign, in a Clean, Compact and Attractive Form

Sample Copies Mailed Free, and Terms to Advertisers Furnished on Application

Norfolk Real Estate Department

NORFOLK REAL ESTATE has continued to steadily increase in values, not annually but monthly. Property especially on Granby Street has increased in value within a period of twelve months 100 per cent. This has been verified not by assessed values, but by actual sales.

The wonderful growth of Norfolk cannot, by any one be termed a boom or even temporary in its character but is due not only to the awakening of our citizens, but to the fact that our advantages and facilities are being more widely advertised, and outside capital are taking advantage of same.

Norfolk is rapidly forging ahead as a Manufacturing City, with an abundance of raw material almost at our door, with both water and rail transportation as well as from Norfolk give us every conceivable advantage.

This, with our Peanut business, Cotton, Lumber, Coal, Oysters, Fish and the greatest Truck business in the Country, where over 3,000,000 packages are shipped annually, gives us still further advantages.

In addition to the above our Suburbanites enjoy the best of electric rail service, and numbers of our factories have taken advantage of the low rate of electricity for power, which rate is as low as that furnished by the great plant at Niagara Falls.

OUT-OF-TOWN WORK SOLICITED

201-207 Governor St.
RICHMOND, VIRGINIA

If 9,896 Farmers

and planters told you that their yields per acre of cotton, corn, tobacco, wheat, fruits, peanuts, rice, sugar cane and truck crops were greatly increased and even doubled

By Using Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers and which they thought the best and biggest crop producers on earth—wouldn't you feel that you should, in justice to yourself, try these fertilizers and get the same increased yields on your own farm? We have many thousands of un-asked-for letters from farmers blessing the day they bought Virginia-Carolina Fertilizers. Many of these letters are in our 1910 Farmers' Year Book, which can be had free of your dealer, or by mailing us the coupon
